

Film & TV Production Insurance

Despite best efforts to ensure otherwise, anyone who has ever worked in the TV & Film industry knows that once you step on set 'everything that can go wrong, will go wrong'. With such great potential for error, minimizing disruption to filming is essential. Having a suitable insurance policy in place can help, providing peace of mind to the production team and allowing their creative juices to flow more easily.

Our Film & Television production package targets risks for individuals and companies including small independent productions through to large studio financed blockbusters.
